She is known as the GODDESS of health, marriage and wisdom Isis was worshipped as the ideal mother and wife as well as the patroness of nature and magic. She was the friend of slaves, sinners, artisans and the downtrodden, but she also listened to the prayers of the wealthy, maidens, aristocrats and rulers. Isis is often depicted as the mother of Horus, the falcon-headed deity associated with king and kingship \(although in some traditions Horus's mother was Hathor\). Isis is also known as protector of the dead and goddess of children. The name Isis means "Throne". Her headdress is a throne. As the personification of the throne, she was an important representation of the pharaoh's power.](#)

We give that credit to the brave soldiers who risk their lives for us. They make sure that we wake up every morning safe. So to those people who think that Caitlyn Jenner is courageous just because she had a sex change surgery, how about you learn a lesson. If the soldiers weren't there for us, Bin Laden hadn't been killed, Isis would take us over, and Hitler would continue his reign and kill all the American Jews. So be grateful for what you have. Happy 239th birthday America!!!! ☐☐☐☐☐☐☐☐](#)

TRUMAN-EISENHOWER-IMF-OFAC-USAID On September 4, 1961, the Congress passed the Foreign Assistance Act, which reorganized the U.S. foreign assistance programs including separating military and non-military aid. The Act mandated the creation of an agency to administer economic assistance programs, and on November 3, 1961, President John F. Kennedy established the U.S. Agency for International Development (USAID). Historical Perspective The 1961 reorganization of America's foreign aid programs resulted from an increasing dissatisfaction with the foreign assistance structures that had evolved from the days of the Marshall Plan, to which USAID and U.S. foreign assistance policy traces its roots. By the end of World War II, Europe had suffered substantial losses, physically and economically. Responding to Europe's calls for help, the international community established the International Monetary Fund (IMF) and the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development (the World Bank) on December 27, 1945. On April 2, 1948, through the enactment of the Economic Cooperation Act, the United States responded by creating the Marshall Plan. While the IMF and the World Bank were created as permanent institutions, the goal of the Marshall Plan was specific: To stabilize Europe, not as a permanent program for European recovery but as an emergency tool of assistance. In 1953, the Foreign Operations Administration was established as an independent government agency outside the Department of State, to consolidate economic and technical assistance on a world-wide basis. Its responsibilities were merged into the International Cooperation Administration (ICA) one year later. The ICA administered aid for economic, political and social development purposes. Although the ICA's functions were vast and far reaching, unlike USAID, ICA had many limitations placed upon it. As a part of the Department of State, ICA did not have the level of autonomy the USAID currently maintains. At the time, multilateral donors (such as those affiliated with the United Nations and the Organization of American States) were playing a greater role in foreign assistance Congressional approval of a revised Mutual Security Act in 1957 led to the creation of the Development Loan Fund (DLF), which acted as the ICA's lending arm. The DLF's primary function was to extend loans of a kind that the Export-Import Bank and other donors were not interested in or prepared to underwrite - those repayable in local currencies. The DLF financed everything other than technical assistance but was most noteworthy for financing capital projects. Neither the ICA nor the DLF addressed the need for a long-range foreign development program. That led to the creation of the U.S. Agency for International Development. The 1961 Foreign Assistance Act By 1960, the support from the American public and Congress for the existing foreign assistance programs had dwindled. The growing dissatisfaction with foreign assistance, highlighted by the book The Ugly American, prompted Congress and the Eisenhower Administration to focus U.S. aid to developing nations, which became an issue during the 1960 U.S. presidential campaign. http://pdf.usaid.gov/pdf_docs/PNACP064.pdf 2.) US DEPARTMENT OF TREASURY, "OFAC" "OFFICE OF FOREIGN ASSETS CONTROL." TERRORISM AND FINANCIAL INTELLIGENCE The Office of Foreign Assets Control (OFAC) of the US Department of the Treasury administers and enforces economic and trade sanctions based on US foreign policy and national security goals against targeted foreign countries and regimes, terrorists, international narcotics traffickers, those engaged in activities related to the proliferation of weapons of mass destruction, and other threats to the national security, foreign policy or economy of the United States. OFAC acts under Presidential national emergency powers, as well as authority granted by specific legislation, to impose controls on transactions and freeze assets under US jurisdiction. Many of the sanctions are based on United Nations and other international mandates, are multilateral in scope, and involve close cooperation with allied governments. The Treasury Department has a long history of dealing with sanctions. Dating back prior to the War of 1812, Secretary of the Treasury Gallatin administered sanctions imposed against Great Britain for the harassment of American sailors. During the Civil War, Congress approved a law which prohibited transactions with the Confederacy, called for the forfeiture of goods involved in such transactions, and provided a licensing regime under rules and regulations administered by Treasury. OFAC is the successor to the Office of Foreign Funds Control (the "FFC"), which was established at the advent of World War II following the German invasion of Norway in 1940. The FFC program was administered by the Secretary of the Treasury throughout the war. The FFC's initial purpose was to prevent Nazi use of the occupied countries' holdings of foreign exchange and securities and to prevent forced repatriation of funds belonging to nationals of those countries. These controls were later extended to protect assets of other invaded countries. After the United States formally entered World War II, the FFC played a leading role in economic warfare against the Axis powers by blocking enemy assets and prohibiting foreign trade and financial transactions. OFAC itself was formally created in December 1950, following the entry of China into the Korean War, when President Truman declared a national emergency and blocked all Chinese and North Korean assets subject to U.S. jurisdiction. Terrorism and Financial Intelligence develops and implements U.S. government strategies to combat terrorist financing domestically and internationally, develops and implements the National Money Laundering Strategy as well as other policies and programs to fight financial crimes. The Office of Terrorism and Financial Intelligence \(TFI\) marshals the department's intelligence and enforcement functions with the twin aims of safeguarding the financial system against illicit use and combating rogue nations, terrorist facilitators, weapons of mass destruction \(WMD\) proliferators, money launderers, drug kingpins, and other national security threats. Mission Organization Key Topics Resources Designations are an important resource in TFI's prosecution of the war on financial terror. With them, TFI is able to freeze the assets of individuals and groups who seek out to commit terrorist acts, as well as those entities who attempt to support them. When examining individuals or organizations for potential designation, the United States works in conjunction with authorities from several other nations, and with international organizations, such as the European Union and the United Nations. For more, please visit Sanctions, OFAC's Specially Designated Nationals List and FinCEN's Advisories. Money Laundering Financial Action Task Force \(FATF\) is an international policy-making and standard-setting body dedicated to combating money laundering and terrorist financing. Created by the G-7 in 1989 in response to a growing concern about money laundering, the FATF's mission is to monitor members' progress in implementing necessary measures, review money laundering and terrorist financing techniques and counter-measures, and promote the adoption and implementation of appropriate measures globally. Members of the TFI staff chair the U.S. delegation to the FATF, and it has been an important organization resource in centralizing efforts to combat money laundering and terrorist financing. The delegation, which also includes members of the Departments of State and Justice, the National Security Council, and federal financial regulators, develops U.S. positions, represent the U.S. at FATF meetings, and implement actions domestically to meet the U.S. commitment to the FATF. For more information, please visit <http://www.fatf-gafi.org/>. Protecting Charitable Organizations from terrorist abuse is a critical component of the global fight against terrorism. Charities provide essential services, comfort, and hope to those in need around the world. Unfortunately, terrorists have exploited the charitable sector to raise and move funds, provide logistical support, encourage terrorist recruitment, or otherwise support terrorist organizations and operations. This abuse threatens to undermine donor confidence and jeopardizes the integrity of the charitable sector, whose services are indispensable to the world community. Hawala & Alternative Remittance Systems provide fast and cost-effective methods for worldwide remittance of money or value, particularly for persons who may be outside the reach of the traditional financial sector. In some nations hawala is illegal, in others the activity is considered a part of the "gray" economy. It is therefore difficult to accurately measure the total volume of financial activity associated with the system, however, it is estimated that the figures are in the tens of billions of dollars, at a minimum. The very features which make hawala attractive to legitimate customers \(mainly expatriates remitting money to relatives in their home country\) --- efficiency, anonymity, and lack of a paper trail---also make the system attractive for the transfer of illicit funds. On October 31, 2001 the Financial Action Task Force \(FATF\) released the Eight Special Recommendations on Terrorist Financing which, when combined with the FATF Forty Recommendations on money laundering, set out the basic framework to detect, prevent, and suppress the financing of terrorism and terrorist acts. Terrorist Finance Tracking Program \(TFTP\) was initiated after the terrorist attacks on September 11, 2001 to identify, track, and pursue terrorists – such as Al-Qaida – and their networks. Since that time, the TFTP has provided valuable leads that have aided in the prevention or investigation of many of the most visible and violent terrorist attacks and attempted attacks of the past decade <http://www.treasury.gov/.../Office-of-Foreign-Assets-Control...> -----

"The general feeling in the beginning was that some form of action was required. There were those, although they were a small minority, who felt the missiles did not alter the balance of power and therefore necessitated no action. Most felt, at that stage, that an air strike against the missile sites could be the only course. "The great danger and risk in all of this," he said, "is a miscalculation—a mistake in judgment." A short time before, he had read Barbara Tuchman's book The Guns of August, and he talked about the miscalculations of the Germans, the Russians, the Austrians, the French, and the British. They somehow seemed to tumble into war, he said, through stupidity, individual idiosyncrasies, misunderstandings, and personal complexes of inferiority and grandeur. We talked about the miscalculation of the Germans in 1939 and the still unfulfilled commitments and guarantees that the British had given to Poland. Neither side wanted war over Cuba, we agreed, but it was possible that either side could take a step that—for](#) reasons of "security" or "pride" or "face"—would require a response by the other side, which, in turn, for the same reasons of security, pride, or face, would bring about a counterresponse and eventually an escalation into armed conflict. That was what he wanted to avoid. He did not want anyone to be able to say that the U.S. had not done all it could to[...]" "a long time. While I was there, he placed telephone calls to former Presidents Truman and Eisenhower. As I was leaving, he said, making reference to Abraham Lincoln, "This is the night I should go to the theater." I said, "If you go, I want to go with you." As I closed the door, he was seated at the desk writing a letter to Mrs. Anderson...." "As mentioned before, Barbara Tuchman's The Guns of August had made a great impression on the President. "I am not going to follow a course which will allow anyone to write a comparable book about this time, The Missiles of October," he said to me that Saturday night, October 26. "If anybody is around to write after this, they are going to understand that we made every effort to find peace and every effort to give our adversary room to move. I am not going to push the Russians an inch beyond what is necessary." After it was finished, he made no statement attempting to take credit for himself or for the Administration for what had occurred. He instructed all members of the Ex Comm and government that no interview should be given, no statement made, which would claim any kind of victory. He respected Khrushchev for properly determining what was in his own country's interest and what was in the interest of mankind. If it was a triumph, it was a triumph for the NEXT GENERATION and not for any particular government or people. Prince von Bülow, of GERMANY said to his successor, "How did it all happen?" "Ah, if only we knew," was the reply. NOTE It was Senator Kennedy's intention to add a discussion of the basic ethical question involved: what, if any, circumstance or justification gives this government or any government the moral right to bring its people and possibly all people under the shadow of nuclear destruction? Forester <http://www.foxnews.com/on-air/justice-jeanine/index.html> From President Truman on, each President has written a note of thanks to the men and women of the CIA. These notes are displayed with the President's official photograph in the Presidential Gallery of the New Headquarters Building. This story is the second in a series about the relationship each president has had with the CIA. This article will focus on President George H.W. Bush. * * * * * After the demise of the Soviet Union and the fall of the Berlin Wall in 1989, President George H.W. Bush declared that a "New World Order" had emerged. However, President Bush cautioned the nation that while it would be less dangerous than before, it would be dangerous nonetheless. With Desert Shield in 1990 and the U.S. intervention in Somalia in 1992, President Bush's point was made crystal clear. A Need for Intelligence During his term, President Bush made many trips to CIA Headquarters, always emphasizing that intelligence was still of great importance in the post-Soviet world. "The challenge of the excellent men and women in Langley and elsewhere in the Intelligence Community is to move beyond the Cold War to the complex problems of the 21st century. Tomorrow's Intelligence Community will need to consolidate and extend freedom's gains against totalitarianism. Intelligence will enhance our protection against terrorism, against the drug menace. Intelligence will help our policymakers understand emerging economic opportunities and challenges. It will help us thwart anyone who tries to steal our technology or otherwise refuses to play by the competitive rules. It will help us seek peace and avert conflicts in regions of dangerous tension." George Bush as DCI George H. W. Bush is the first president to have served as the Director of Central Intelligence (DCI). He served as DCI from January 1976 to January 1977. During Bush's presidency, his experience as DCI gave him an insider's knowledge of the Intelligence Community and how it

[operated. When DCI Bush came to the Agency, the investigations of the Senate's Church Committee —which rocked the Intelligence Community — were just coming to a close. DCI Bush was credited with restoring the morale of Agency employees during a time of great turbulence. George Bush Center for Intelligence In April 1999, the CIA Headquarters compound was designated the "George Bush Center for Intelligence" in honor of the former DCI and president. Agency employees, former Directors and Deputy Directors of Central Intelligence, colleagues, friends, and family members joined former President Bush at the dedication ceremony. Carrying on the tradition started by President Truman following the Agency's founding, President Bush wrote a note thanking the men and women of the CIA for their service to the United States. He is the 11th president to write a note for the CIA's Presidents' Gallery: "To the CIA, an indispensable Agency — especially to the men and women who serve with such dedication and distinction." Time: Jul 24, 2015 09:40 EDT

Item Text: Former Iranian pres condemns bin Laden and Sept 11 attacks 1. Various of chanting protesters holding posters 2. Close-up of poster reading:"Stop war on Iran" 3. More shots of protest 4. Mid of police at the scene 5. Protesters 6. Former Iranian president Mohammed Khatami coming up to podium 7. Wide of Khatami on stage 6. SOUNDBITE: (Farsi, with voice of the translator in English) Mohammed Khatami, Former Iranian president: "And we also have barbaric groups that can take airplanes with its passengers and turn it into a bomb and in a second wreak havoc and turn the world into a burning hell, these are examples of terrorism and we must severely condemn this and resist it." 7. Cutaway 8. SOUNDBITE: (English) Mohammed Khatami, Former Iranian president: "I was one of the first world leaders to condemn this barbaric and savage act. As a human, as a Muslim, and as an Iranian I stand before you to once again express my deepest sympathy with the families of the victims and with all the great American people. Let us wish for a world devoid of violence and anger, and (inaudible) blessed with compassion and peace." 9. Cutaway wide of lecture 10. SOUNDBITE: (Farsi, with voice of the translator in English) Mohammed Khatami, Former Iranian president: "But for the past ten years they have not proven an action that Hezbollah has committed that falls under the definition of terrorism. Hezbollah today is a symbol of Lebanese resistance and is an Arabic group." 11. Wide of the audiences 12. Khatami concluding speech, shaking hands and leaving hall STORYLINE: Former Iranian president Mohammed Khatami on Sunday condemned the September 11 attacks, but defended groups such as Hezbollah for what he characterised as resistance against Israeli colonialism. He made the remarks during a speech at Harvard University on the eve of the fifth anniversary of the September 11 attacks, where he was met by chanting protesters, many angrily calling on him to stand up for human rights. Police estimated that 200 were in the crowd that blamed him for failing to stop government crackdowns on student activists in Tehran during his two terms in office. There were no major problems, but police presence was heavy. One man was briefly detained during the protests, but police later said there were no arrests. In a 30-minute speech given under tight security at the John F. Kennedy School of Government, Khatami repeatedly praised the concept of democracy but said American politicians, since World War II, have been infatuated with "world domination." Khatami, who spoke through a translator, said he was one of the first world leaders to condemn "the barbarous acts" of Sept. 11. Khatami denied that Iran helps fund the Lebanese militant group Hezbollah, but defended the organisation's right to exist, saying no action that it ever committed fell "under the definition of terrorism." "Hezbollah today is a symbol of Lebanese resistance," he added. The former president was considered a reformist during his two terms as president that ended last year. His visit to the United States has been criticised by many, particularly amid concerns about Iran's nuclear programme. Khatami is the most senior Iranian to travel outside New York in the United States since Islamic fundamentalists seized the U.S. Embassy in Tehran in 1979 and held Americans hostage for 444 days. He was invited to the United States by the U.N.-sponsored Alliance of Civilisations, of which he is a founding member. The group strives to foster cross-cultural understanding between Western and Islamic states. Item Text: #fb Happy #Caturday! This #tiger adorns the #map of Asia in Jacopo Pencio's 1511 edition of Ptolemy's Geographia. We love Ptolemy at the #MapCenter: he was a 2nd century Greco-Egyptian geographer, mathematician, astronomer, and astrologer whose work had an enormous impact on the geographical understandings of Renaissance Europe and the medieval Caliphate. Just think: the Geographia was originally published in 150 AD, and explorers—including Christopher Columbus—continued to rely upon his text over 1300 years later. That's some legacy! As an aside: it's doubtful that our 16th century friend Jacopo encountered a tiger in real life, but based on this tiger's humanoid expression of existential guilt, we have to wonder if he had ever even met a house cat; everyone knows that cats are fluffy maniacs incapable of guilt, existential or otherwise. #cartozoology <http://maps.bpl.org/id/n41426> #BostonPublicLibrary #BPLBoston #maps #Asia #Ptolemy #Geographia #tigers #16thcentury #2ndcentury #geography #geographer #history #historyteacher #historylesson #cartography #cartographer #exploration #explore #atlas

Alert Name: Islamist Extremist Terminology

Trigger: isis

Source: instagram

Time: Aug 26, 2015 11:27 EDT

Item Text: Such unbelievably heartbreaking news this morning -- two journalists were shot dead while they were broadcasting a live report from a strip mall. At first, I thought this was an ISIS attack overseas -- which isn't any less jarring --but this is so close to home, and it is shocking. Ben and I just listened to Barack Obama's interview from a few weeks ago on @marcmaron's "#WTFpodcast", and now all I can think about are the things our president said about gun control, and the way he can't ever seem to get any cooperation from Congress on the matter. I am not a political person ... and I usually do not talk about politics, because I'm not terribly passionate about them, and it's really no fun opening my mouth, and having a bunch of overheated people swatting at me because they think I've said something stupid... but, for just this one time, I feel extra opinionated today, so I am just going to speak from my heart:: I know we all love our freedom, and the right to bear arms was such a big victory for us back in the 1700s, but :::::we are not in the 1700s anymore::::. And, while we have a society, it's not really a uniform society; we're made up of a bunch of mini-societies, all of whom march to their own drummers. That is the beauty of our freedom, but this easy access to gun thing -- that, I think, is a downside of it. It is really, really time to do to guns, what we did to the Confederate flag. I'm honestly just heartsick. All good thoughts to the friends and families affected by this tragedy, and I pray that Vicki Gardner makes a full recovery. ♥☐ #Virginia #shooting #gunlaws #heartbreak

Alert Name: Islamist Extremist Terminology

Time: Dec 14, 2015 04:14 PM EST

Item Text: Making Sense of ISIS and Sectarianism After a political regime rapidly collapses leaving society in near total chaos, as happened in Iraq in 2003, what happens next? Why were Shiites more successful in limiting violence and providing public goods than Sunnis were in Iraq? Why have many women in the Middle East resorted to increasingly conservative modes of dress in recent decades? Many of the current conflicts in the Middle East have been attributed to sectarianism, a politicization of ethnic and religious identity. From the crisis in Iraq and Syria to the tension between Iran and Saudi Arabia, the struggle between Sunni and Shiites groups for dominance is tearing apart the region and shows no signs of abating. However, for all the religious discourse permeating the conflict, much of its roots are political, not religious. How does sectarianism fit into a larger narrative of the Middle East? How have governments manipulated sectarian differences? And finally, what is the U.S. doing about it?

Hezbollah today is a symbol of Lebanese resistance and is an Arabic group."](#) 12. Wide of the audiences 13. Khatami concluding speech, shaking hands and leaving hall STORYLINE: [Former Iranian president Mohammed Khatami on Sunday condemned the September 11 attacks, but defended groups such as Hezbollah for what he characterised as resistance against Israeli colonialism. He made the remarks during a speech at Harvard University on the eve of the fifth anniversary of the September 11 attacks, where he was met by chanting protesters, many angrily calling on him to stand up for human rights. Police estimated that 200 were in the crowd that blamed him for failing to stop government crackdowns on student activists in Tehran during his two terms in office. There were no major problems, but police presence was heavy. One man was briefly detained during the protests, but police later said there were no arrests. In a 30-minute speech given under tight security at the John F. Kennedy School of Government, Khatami repeatedly praised the concept of democracy but said American politicians, since World War II, have been infatuated with "world domination." Khatami, who spoke through a translator, said he was one of the first world leaders to condemn "the barbarous acts" of Sept. 11. Khatami denied that Iran helps fund the Lebanese militant group Hezbollah, but defended the organisation's right to exist, saying no action that it ever committed fell "under the definition of terrorism." "Hezbollah today is a symbol of Lebanese resistance," he added. The former president was considered a reformist during his two terms as president that ended last year. His visit to the United States has been criticised by many, particularly amid concerns about Iran's nuclear programme. Khatami is the most senior Iranian to travel outside New York in the United States since Islamic fundamentalists seized the U.S. Embassy in Tehran in 1979 and held Americans hostage for 444 days. He was invited to the United States by the U.N.-sponsored Alliance of Civilisations, of which he is a founding member. The group strives to foster cross-cultural understanding between Western and Islamic states. "Thirteen Days" Robert F. Kennedy 1968, Read this book, A Real factual and hypnotic outline. With it,
You can reference any current Historical or Military Crisis and understand it. Last night I slept with the TV on Fox as usual, I kept waking up hearing the same old trap of history, Terrorism, Isis., Iran, Syria, Taliban, Al QUIDA and this Stupid Delusional Profit Mohammed with a joint in his mouth and a "Magic Carpet Ride" all of which equals a Suicidal Kamikaze Ideation to Hitlerism. "The general feeling in the beginning was that some form of action was required. There were those, although they were a small minority, who felt the missiles did not alter the balance of power and therefore necessitated no action.
Most felt, at that stage, that an air strike against the missile sites could be the only course. Listening to the proposals, I passed a note to the President: "I now know how Tojo felt when he was planning Pearl Harbor" We now should Screw these Mohammed's, Bomb them all immediately and through the Irish Catholic Bible at Them. Along with English Dictionaries. The solution to "History Repeats itself" is to hit them as you would the Ottoman Empire as usual. THEN REFOCUS ON THE SCHOOLING SYSTEM
OLD SCHOOL CATHOLIC TEACHING AND AS HISTORY REPEATS ITSELF START TEACHING HISTORY FROM ALL THE OLD SCHOOL MILITARY BOOKS SUCH AS THE GUNS OF AUGUST, WHILE ENGLAND SLEPT, THE UGLY AMERICAN, PATTON AND "THIRTEEN DAYS" REMBER IT I VITAL TO BOMB AND STIKE IRAN, ISIS, AND SYRIA NOW, THEY DON'T HAVE ANY ACTIVE NUCLEAR WEAPONS TO SUSTAIN A WAR SCREW THESE DOPE ADDICT MOHAMMED'S.! THEY WILL LOSE HANDS DOWN!!!! NOW. PG 62: "The Important meeting of the OAS" "After the meeting, the President, Ted Sorensen, Kenny O'Donnell, and I sat in his office and talked. "The great danger and risk in all of this," he said, "is a miscalculation—a mistake in judgment." A short time before, he had read Barbara Tuchman's book The Guns of August, and he talked about the miscalculations of the Germans, the Russians, the Austrians, the French, and the British. They somehow seemed to tumble into war, he said, through stupidity, individual idiosyncrasies, misunderstandings, and personal complexes of inferiority and grandeur. We talked about the miscalculation of the Germans in 1939 and the still unfulfilled commitments and guarantees that the British had given to Poland. Neither side wanted war over Cuba, we agreed, but it was possible that either side could take a step that—for reasons of "security" or "pride" or "face"—would require a response by the other side, which, in turn, for the same reasons of security, pride, or face, would bring about a counterresponse and eventually an escalation into armed conflict. That was what he wanted to avoid. He did not want anyone to be able to say that the U.S. had not done all it could to[...]" "a long time. While I was there, he placed telephone calls to former Presidents Truman and Eisenhower. As I was leaving, he said, making reference to Abraham Lincoln, "This is the night I should go to the theater." I said, "If you go, I want to go with you." As I closed the door, he was seated at the desk writing a letter to Mrs. Anderson...." "As mentioned before, Barbara Tuchman's The Guns of August had made a great impression on the President. "I am not going to follow a course which will allow anyone to write a comparable book about this time, The Missiles of October," he said to me that Saturday night, October 26. "If anybody is around to write after this, they are going to understand that we made every effort to find peace and every effort to give our adversary room to move. I am not going to push the Russians an inch beyond what is necessary.” After it was finished, he made no statement attempting to take credit for himself or for the Administration for what had occurred. He instructed all members of the Ex Comm and government that no interview should be given, no statement made, which would claim any kind of victory. He respected Khrushchev for properly determining what was in his own country’s interest and what was in the interest of mankind. If it was a triumph, it was a triumph for the NEXT GENERATION and not for any particular government or people. Prince von Bülow, of GERMANY said to his successor, “How did it all happen?” “Ah, if only we knew,” was the reply. NOTE It was Senator Kennedy’s intention to add a discussion of the basic ethical question involved: what, if any, circumstance or justification gives this government or any government the moral right to bring its people and possibly all people under the shadow of nuclear destruction? He wrote this book in the summer and fall of 1967 on the basis of his personal diaries and recollections, but never had an opportunity to rewrite or compete it Excerpt From: Robert F. Kennedy. “Thirteen Days: A Memoir of the Cuban Missile Crisis.” HarperCollins, 1969. iBooks. ITUN.ES Central Intelligence Agency Judge Jeanine Pirro Judge Jeanine Pirro for President <http://www.foxnews.com/on-air/justice-jeanine/index.html> The White House Barack Obama Trey Gowdy Darrell Issa Charles J. Forester <http://www.foxnews.com/on-air/justice-jeanine/index.html> From President Truman on, each President has written a note of thanks to the men and women of the CIA. These notes are displayed with the President’s official photograph in the Presidential Gallery of the New Headquarters Building. This story is the second in a series about the relationship each president has had with the CIA. This article will focus on President George H.W. Bush. * * * * * After the demise of the Soviet Union and the fall of the Berlin Wall in 1989, President George H.W. Bush declared that a “New World Order” had emerged. However, President Bush cautioned the nation that while it would be less dangerous than before, it would be dangerous nonetheless. With Desert Shield in 1990 and the U.S. intervention in Somalia in 1992, President Bush’s point was made crystal clear. A Need for Intelligence During his term, President Bush made many trips to CIA Headquarters, always emphasizing that intelligence was still of great importance in the post-Soviet world. “The challenge of the excellent men and women in Langley and elsewhere in the Intelligence Community is to move beyond the Cold War to the complex problems of the 21st century. Tomorrow’s Intelligence Community will need to consolidate and extend freedom’s gains against totalitarianism. Intelligence will enhance our protection against terrorism, against the drug menace. Intelligence will help our policymakers understand emerging economic opportunities and challenges. It will help us thwart anyone who tries to steal our technology or otherwise refuses to play by the competitive rules. It will help us seek peace and avert conflicts in regions of dangerous tension.” George Bush as DCI George H. W. Bush is the first president to have served as the Director of Central Intelligence \(DCI\). He served as DCI from January 1976 to January 1977. During Bush’s presidency, his experience as DCI gave him an insider’s knowledge of the Intelligence Community and how it operated. When DCI Bush came to the Agency, the investigations of the Senate’s Church Committee —which rocked the Intelligence Community — were just coming to a close. DCI Bush was credited with restoring the morale of Agency employees during a time of great turbulence. George Bush Center for Intelligence In April 1999, the CIA Headquarters compound was designated the “George Bush Center for Intelligence” in honor of the former DCI and president. Agency employees, former Directors and Deputy Directors of Central Intelligence, colleagues, friends, and family members joined former President Bush at the dedication ceremony. Carrying on the tradition started by President Truman following the Agency’s founding, President Bush wrote a note thanking the men and women of the CIA for their service to the United States. He is the 11th president to write a note for the CIA’s Presidents’ Gallery: “To the CIA, an indispensable Agency — especially to the men and women who serve with

KENNEDY HISTORY TEACHING IN HIGH SCHOOL. INCLUDING THE IMF, AND OFAC, AND THE HISTORY OF MONEY AND BANKING
"Thirteen Days" Robert F. Kennedy 1968, Read this book, A Real factual and hypnotic outline. With it, You can reference any current Historical or Military Crisis and understand it. Last night I slept with the TV on Fox as usual, I kept waking up hearing the same old trap of history, Terrorism, Isis., Iran, Syria, Taliban, Al QUIDA and this Stupid Delusional Profit Mohammed with a joint in his mouth and a "Magic Carpet Ride" all of which equals a Suicidal Kamikaze Ideation to Hitlerism. "The general feeling in the beginning was that some form of action was required. There were those, although they were a small minority, who felt the missiles did not alter the balance of power and therefore necessitated no action. Most felt, at that stage, that an air strike against the missile sites could be the only course. Listening to the proposals, I passed a note to the President: "I now know how Tojo felt when he was planning Pearl Harbor" We now should Screw these Mohammed's, Bomb them all immediately and through the Irish Catholic Bible at Them. Along with English Dictionaries. The solution to "History Repeats itself" is to hit them as you would the Ottoman Empire as usual. THEN REFOCUS ON THE SCHOOLING SYSTEM OLD SCHOOL CATHOLIC TEACHING AND AS HISTORY REPEATS ITSELF START TEACHING HISTORY FROM ALL THE OLD SCHOOL MILITARY BOOKS SUCH AS THE GUNS OF AUGUST, WHILE ENGLAND SLEPT, THE UGLY AMERICAN, PATTON AND "THIRTEEN DAYS" REMBER IT I VITAL TO BOMB AND STIKE IRAN, ISIS, AND SYRIA NOW, THEY DON'T HAVE ANY ACTIVE NUCLEAR WEAPONS TO SUSTAIN A WAR SCREW THESE DOPE ADDICT MOHAMMED'S.! THEY WILL LOSE HANDS DOWN!!!! NOW. PG 62: "The Important meeting of the OAS" "After the meeting, the President, Ted Sorensen, Kenny O'Donnell, and I sat in his office and talked. "The great danger and risk in all of this," he said, "is a miscalculation—a mistake in judgment." A short time before, he had read Barbara Tuchman's book The Guns of August, and he talked about the miscalculations of the Germans, the Russians, the Austrians, the French, and the British. They somehow seemed to tumble into war, he said, through stupidity, individual idiosyncrasies, misunderstandings, and personal complexes of inferiority and grandeur. We talked about the miscalculation of the Germans in 1939 and the still unfulfilled commitments and guarantees that the British had given to Poland. Neither side wanted war over Cuba, we agreed, but it was possible that either side could take a step that—for reasons of "security" or "pride" or "face"—would require a response by the other side, which, in turn, for the same reasons of security, pride, or face, would bring about a counterresponse and eventually an escalation into armed conflict. That was what he wanted to avoid. He did not want anyone to be able to say that the U.S. had not done all it could to[...]" "a long time. While I was there, he placed telephone calls to former Presidents Truman and Eisenhower. As I was leaving, he said, making reference to Abraham Lincoln, "This is the night I should go to the theater." I said, "If you go, I want to go with you." As I closed the door, he was seated at the desk writing a letter to Mrs. Anderson...." "As mentioned before, Barbara Tuchman's The Guns of August had made a great impression on the President. "I am not going to follow a course which will allow anyone to write a comparable book about this time, The Missiles of October,” he said to me that Saturday night, October 26. “If anybody is around to write after this, they are going to understand that we made every effort to find peace and every effort to give our adversary room to move. I am not going to push the Russians an inch beyond what is necessary.” After it was finished, he made no statement attempting to take credit for himself or for the Administration for what had occurred. He instructed all members of the Ex Comm and government that no interview should be given, no statement made, which would claim any kind of victory. He respected Khrushchev for properly determining what was in his own country’s interest and what was in the interest of mankind. If it was a triumph, it was a triumph for the NEXT GENERATION and not for any particular government or people. Prince von Bülow, of GERMANY said to his successor, “How did it all happen?” “Ah, if only we knew,” was the reply. NOTE It was Senator Kennedy’s intention to add a discussion of the basic ethical question involved: what, if any, circumstance or justification gives this government or any government the moral right to bring its people and possibly all people under the shadow of nuclear destruction? Forester <http://www.foxnews.com/on-air/justice-jeanine/index.html> From President Truman on, each President has written a note of thanks to the men and women of the CIA. These notes are displayed with the President’s official photograph in the Presidential Gallery of the New Headquarters Building. This story is the second in a series about the relationship each president has had with the CIA. This article will focus on President George H.W. Bush. * * * * * After the demise of the Soviet Union and the fall of the Berlin Wall in 1989, President George H.W. Bush declared that a “New World Order” had emerged. However, President Bush cautioned the nation that while it would be less dangerous than before, it would be dangerous nonetheless. With Desert Shield in 1990 and the U.S. intervention in Somalia in 1992, President Bush’s point was made crystal clear. A Need for Intelligence During his term, President Bush made many trips to CIA Headquarters, always emphasizing that intelligence was still of great importance in the post-Soviet world. “The challenge of the excellent men and women in Langley and elsewhere in the Intelligence Community is to move beyond the Cold War to the complex problems of the 21st century. Tomorrow’s Intelligence Community will need to consolidate and extend freedom’s gains against totalitarianism. Intelligence will enhance our protection against terrorism, against the drug menace. Intelligence will help our policymakers understand emerging economic opportunities and challenges. It will help us thwart anyone who tries to steal our technology or otherwise refuses to play by the competitive rules. It will help us seek peace and avert conflicts in regions of dangerous tension.” George Bush as DCI George H. W. Bush is the first president to have served as the Director of Central Intelligence (DCI). He served as DCI from January 1976 to January 1977. During Bush’s presidency, his experience as DCI gave him an insider’s knowledge of the Intelligence Community and how it operated. When DCI Bush came to the Agency, the investigations of the Senate’s Church Committee—which rocked the Intelligence Community—were just coming to a close. DCI Bush was credited with restoring the morale of Agency employees during a time of great turbulence. George Bush Center for Intelligence In April 1999, the CIA Headquarters compound was designated the “George Bush Center for Intelligence” in honor of the former DCI and president. Agency employees, former Directors and Deputy Directors of Central Intelligence, colleagues, friends, and family members joined former President Bush at the dedication ceremony. Carrying on the tradition started by President Truman following the Agency’s founding, President Bush wrote a note thanking the men and women of the CIA for their service to the United States. He is the 11th president to write a note for the CIA’s Presidents’

Item Text: Noam Chomsky über die Terroranschläge in Paris – November 2015 Am 17. November 2015 nahm Noam Chomsky an einer Veranstaltung von acTVism Munich namens „Deutschlands Rolle in der Europäischen Union und in der internationalen Politik: Nachkriegsgeschichte, Gegenwart und mögliche Zukunft“ teil. Aufgrund limitierter finanzieller Ressourcen, Personal- und technischer Kapazitäten, werden wir die gesamte Veranstaltung im Mini-Video-Format veröffentlichen. Dieses Format räumt uns genügend Zeit ein, um die Inhalte in verschiedene Sprachen zu übersetzen und mit Untertiteln und Synchronstimmen zu versehen – für Menschen mit Hör- & Sehschäden. Bitte Spenden Sie, um uns mit Produktionsprozess und der Veröffentlichungsarbeit zu unterstützen: <http://www.activism.org/donate/> Im ersten Video kommentiert Prof. Noam Chomsky die Terrorattacken in Paris, die vom selbsternannten Islamischen Staat (IS/ISIL/ISIS/DAESH) ausgeübt wurden. Eine Zusammenfassung der Attacken in Paris: Am 13. November 2015 fand eine Reihe von Terrorattacken in Paris statt, welche 130 Menschenleben und etwa 368 Verletzte forderten. Ziele der Attacken waren das Stade de France in Saint-Denis, das von drei Selbstmordattentätern attackiert wurde, der Bataclan-Konzertsaal, wo Geiseln genommen wurden und es die mit Abstand meisten Toten gab, sowie Cafés und Restaurant in Paris. Der selbsternannte Islamische Staat (IS/ISIL/ISIS/DAESH) bekannte sich zu den Attacken und bezeichnete sie als Vergeltungsaktion für die französischen Luftangriffe gegen den IS in Syrien & Irak. Am 15. November 2015 antwortete Frankreich mit einem weiteren Luftangriff: 12 Flugzeuge, die insgesamt 20 Bomben abwarfen. Der Angriff war Teil von Opération Chammal, einer Militäroperation, die am 19. September 2014 in Syrien und Irak initiiert wurde. Die IS-Attacke gilt als die „tödlichste“ auf französischem Boden seit dem Pariser Massaker am 17. Oktober 1961, das von der französischen Nationalpolizei ausgeübt wurde und etwa 200 Menschenleben forderte.

Item Text: <http://www.foxnews.com/on-air/justice-jeanine/index.html> 1.) TRUMAN-EISENHOWER-IMF-OFAC-USAID On September 4, 1961, the Congress passed the Foreign Assistance Act, which reorganized the U.S. foreign assistance programs including separating military and non-military aid. The Act mandated the creation of an agency to administer economic assistance programs, and on November 3, 1961, President John F. Kennedy established the U.S. Agency for International Development (USAID). Historical Perspective The 1961 reorganization of America's foreign aid programs resulted from an increasing dissatisfaction with the foreign assistance structures that had evolved from the days of the Marshall Plan, to which USAID and U.S. foreign assistance policy traces its roots. By the end of World War II, Europe had suffered substantial losses, physically and economically. Responding to Europe's calls for help, the international community established the International Monetary Fund (IMF) and the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development (the World Bank) on December 27, 1945. On April 2, 1948, through the enactment of the Economic Cooperation Act, the United States responded by creating the Marshall Plan. While the IMF and the World Bank were created as permanent institutions, the goal of the Marshall Plan was specific: To stabilize Europe, not as a permanent program for European recovery but as an emergency tool of assistance. In 1953, the Foreign Operations Administration was established as an independent government agency outside the Department of State, to consolidate economic and technical assistance on a world-wide basis. Its responsibilities were merged into the International Cooperation Administration (ICA) one year later. The ICA administered aid for economic, political and social development purposes. Although the ICA's functions were vast and far reaching, unlike USAID, ICA had many limitations placed upon it. As a part of the Department of State, ICA did not have the level of autonomy the USAID currently maintains. At the time, multilateral donors (such as those affiliated with the United Nations and the Organization of American States) were playing a greater role in foreign assistance Congressional approval of a revised Mutual Security Act in 1957 led to the creation of the Development Loan Fund (DLF), which acted as the ICA's lending arm. The DLF's primary function was to extend loans of a kind that the Export-Import Bank and other donors were not interested in or prepared to underwrite - those repayable in local currencies. The DLF financed everything other than technical assistance but was most noteworthy for financing capital projects. Neither the ICA nor the DLF addressed the need for a long-range foreign development program. That led to the creation of the U.S. Agency for International Development. The 1961 Foreign Assistance Act By 1960, the support from the American public and Congress for the existing foreign assistance programs had dwindled. The growing dissatisfaction with foreign assistance, highlighted by the book The Ugly American, prompted Congress and the Eisenhower Administration to focus U.S. aid to developing nations, which became an issue during the 1960 U.S. presidential campaign. http://pdf.usaid.gov/pdf_docs/PNACP064.pdf 2.) TERRORISM AND FINANCIAL INTELLIGENCE The Office of Foreign Assets Control (OFAC) of the US Department of the Treasury administers and enforces economic and trade sanctions based on US foreign policy and national security goals against targeted foreign countries and regimes, terrorists, international narcotics traffickers, those engaged in activities related to the proliferation of weapons of mass destruction, and other threats to the national security, foreign policy or economy of the United States. OFAC acts under Presidential national emergency powers, as well as authority granted by specific legislation, to impose controls on transactions and freeze assets under US jurisdiction. Many of the sanctions are based on United Nations and other international mandates, are multilateral in scope, and involve close cooperation with allied governments. The Treasury Department has a long history of dealing with sanctions. Dating back prior to the War of 1812, Secretary of the Treasury Gallatin administered sanctions imposed against Great Britain for the harassment of American sailors. During the Civil War, Congress approved a law which prohibited transactions with the Confederacy, called for the forfeiture of goods involved in such transactions, and provided a licensing regime under rules and regulations administered by Treasury. OFAC is the successor to the Office of Foreign Funds Control (the "FFC"), which was established at the advent of World War II following the German invasion of Norway in 1940. The FFC program was administered by the Secretary of the Treasury throughout the war. The FFC's initial purpose was to prevent Nazi use of the occupied countries' holdings of foreign exchange and securities and to prevent forced repatriation of funds belonging to nationals of those countries. These controls were later extended to protect assets of other invaded countries. After the United States formally entered World War II, the FFC played a leading role in economic warfare against the Axis powers by blocking enemy assets and prohibiting foreign trade and financial transactions. OFAC itself was formally created in December 1950, following the entry of China into the Korean War, when President Truman declared a national emergency and blocked all Chinese and North Korean assets subject to U.S. jurisdiction. Terrorism and Financial Intelligence Terrorism and Financial Intelligence develops and implements U.S. government strategies to combat terrorist financing domestically and internationally, develops and implements the National Money Laundering Strategy as well as other policies and programs to fight financial crimes. The Office of Terrorism and Financial Intelligence (TFI) marshals the department's intelligence and enforcement functions with the twin aims of safeguarding the financial system against illicit use and combating rogue nations, terrorist facilitators, weapons of mass destruction (WMD) proliferators, money launderers, drug kingpins, and other national security threats. Mission Organization Key Topics Resources Designations are an important resource in TFI's prosecution of the war on financial terror. With them, TFI is able to freeze the assets of individuals and groups who seek out to commit terrorist acts, as well as those entities who attempt to support them. When examining individuals or organizations for potential designation, the United States works in conjunction with authorities from several other nations, and with international organizations, such as the European Union and the United Nations. For more, please visit Sanctions, OFAC's Specially Designated Nationals List and FinCEN's Advisories. Money Laundering Financial Action Task Force (FATF) is an international policy-making and standard-setting body dedicated to combating money laundering and terrorist financing. Created by the G-7 in 1989 in response to a growing concern about money laundering, the FATF's mission is to monitor members' progress in implementing necessary measures, review money laundering and terrorist financing techniques and counter-measures, and promote the adoption and implementation of appropriate measures globally. Members of the TFI staff chair the U.S. delegation to the FATF, and it has been an important organization resource in centralizing efforts to combat money laundering and terrorist financing. The delegation, which also includes members of the Departments of State and Justice, the National Security Council, and federal financial regulators, develops U.S. positions, represent the U.S. at FATF meetings, and implement actions domestically to meet the U.S. commitment to the FATF. For more information, please visit <http://www.fatf-gafi.org/>. Protecting Charitable Organizations from terrorist abuse is a critical component of the global fight against terrorism. Charities provide essential services, comfort, and hope to those in need around the world. Unfortunately, terrorists have exploited the charitable sector to raise and move funds, provide logistical support, encourage terrorist recruitment, or otherwise support terrorist organizations and operations. This abuse threatens to undermine donor confidence and jeopardizes the integrity of the charitable sector, whose services are indispensable to the world community. Hawala & Alternative Remittance Systems provide fast and cost-effective methods for worldwide remittance of money or value, particularly for persons who may be outside the reach of the traditional financial sector. In some nations hawala is illegal, in others the activity is considered a part of the "gray" economy. It is therefore difficult to accurately measure the total volume of financial activity associated with the system, however, it is estimated that the figures are in the tens of billions of dollars, at a minimum. The very features which make hawala attractive to legitimate customers (mainly expatriates remitting money to relatives in their home country) --- efficiency, anonymity, and lack of a paper trail---also make the system attractive for the transfer of illicit funds. On October 31, 2001 the Financial Action Task Force (FATF) released the Eight Special

Recommendations on Terrorist Financing which, when combined with the FATF Forty Recommendations on money laundering, set out the basic framework to detect, prevent, and suppress the financing of terrorism and terrorist acts. Terrorist Finance Tracking Program \(TFTP\) was initiated after the terrorist attacks on September 11, 2001 to identify, track, and pursue terrorists – such as Al-Qaida – and their networks. Since that time, the TFTP has provided valuable leads that have aided in the prevention or investigation of many of the most visible and violent terrorist attacks and attempted attacks of the past decade <http://www.treasury.gov/about/organizational-structure/offices/Pages/Office-of-Foreign-Assets-Control.aspx#.UxtRTL9XBBI.twitter> EUROPEAN COMMISSION "DELOITTE" BELGIUM DG Internal Market and Services Budget FINAL STUDY ON THE APPLICATION OF THE ANTI MONEY LAUNDERING DIRECTIVE COUNTER TERRORISM & SHELL COMPANIES http://ec.europa.eu/internal_market/company/docs/financial-crime/20110124_study_amld_en.pdf TURN TO PAGES 96-97-98 FOR IRAN & SYRIA <https://appsto.re/us/W6R0Y.i> cc: TIM ALBEN <http://www.mass.gov/eopss/agencies/msp/#.VY3AYXD3arW> <https://www.facebook.com/USNavyBlueAngels/videos/890660884308364/> utu.be/ks6xIFHvF84 CARRY THAT WEIGHT <http://youtu.be/olxzTYFWj5Q> LIVE AND LET DIE <http://youtu.be/5CfLUmVso30> QUEENIE-EYE <http://youtu.be/KH7j185hotE> DREAMS B.ANGELS NOW THIS IS THE FLY-BYE.. "The general feeling in the beginning was that some form of action was required. There were those, although they were a small minority, who felt the missiles did not alter the balance of power and therefore necessitated no action. Most felt, at that stage, that an air strike against the missile sites could be the only course. Listening to the proposals, I passed a note to the President: "I now know how Tojo felt when he was planning Pearl

"The great danger and risk in all of this," he said, "is a miscalculation—a mistake in judgment." A short time before, he had read Barbara Tuchman's book The Guns of August, and he talked about the miscalculations of the Germans, the Russians, the Austrians, the French, and the British. They somehow seemed to tumble into war, he said, through stupidity, individual idiosyncrasies, misunderstandings, and personal complexes of inferiority and grandeur. We talked about the miscalculation of the Germans in 1939 and the still unfulfilled commitments and guarantees that the British had given to Poland. Neither side wanted war over Cuba, we agreed, but it was possible that either side could take a step that—for reasons of "security" or "pride" or "face"—would require a response by the other side, which, in turn, for the same reasons of security, pride, or face, would bring about a counterresponse and eventually an escalation into armed conflict. That was what he wanted to avoid. He did not want anyone to be able to say that the U.S. had not done all it could to[...]" "a long time. While I was there, he placed telephone calls to former Presidents Truman and Eisenhower. As I was leaving, he said, making reference to Abraham Lincoln, "This is the night I should go to the theater." I said, "If you go, I want to go with you." As I closed the door, he was seated at the desk writing a letter to Mrs. Anderson...." "As mentioned before, Barbara Tuchman's The Guns of August had made a great impression on the President. "I am not going to follow a course which will allow anyone to write a comparable book about this time, The Missiles of October," he said to me that Saturday night, October 26. "If anybody is around to write after this, they are going to understand that we made every effort to find peace and every effort to give our adversary room to move. I am not going to push the Russians an inch beyond what is necessary." After it was finished, he made no statement attempting to take credit for himself or for the Administration for what had occurred. He instructed all members of the Ex Comm and government that no interview should be given, no statement made, which would claim any kind of victory. He respected Khrushchev for properly determining what was in his own country's interest and what was in the interest of mankind. If it was a triumph, it was a triumph for the NEXT GENERATION and not for any particular government or people. Prince von Bülow, of GERMANY said to his successor, "How did it all happen?" "Ah, if only we knew," was the reply. NOTE It was Senator Kennedy's intention to add a discussion of the basic ethical question involved: what, if any, circumstance or justification gives this government or any government the moral right to bring its people and possibly all people under the shadow of nuclear destruction? ITUN.ES Central Intelligence Agency Judge Jeanine Pirro Judge Jeanine Pirro for President <http://www.foxnews.com/on-air/justice-jeanine/index.html> The White House Barack Obama Trey Gowdy Darrell Issa * * * * Charles J. Forester <http://www.foxnews.com/on-air/justice-jeanine/index.html> From President Truman on, each President has written a note of thanks to the men and women of the CIA. These notes are displayed with the President's official photograph in the Presidential Gallery of the New Headquarters Building. This story is the second in a series about the relationship each president has had with the CIA. This article will focus on President George H.W.

[Bush. * * * * After the demise of the Soviet Union and the fall of the Berlin Wall in 1989, President George H.W. Bush declared that a “New World Order” had emerged. However, President Bush cautioned the nation that while it would be less dangerous than before, it would be dangerous nonetheless. With Desert Shield in 1990 and the U.S. intervention in Somalia in 1992, President Bush’s point was made crystal clear. A Need for Intelligence During his term, President Bush made many trips to CIA Headquarters, always emphasizing that intelligence was still of great importance in the post-Soviet world. “The challenge of the excellent men and women in Langley and elsewhere in the Intelligence Community is to move beyond the Cold War to the complex problems of the 21st century. Tomorrow’s Intelligence Community will need to consolidate and extend freedom’s gains against totalitarianism. Intelligence will enhance our protection against terrorism, against the drug menace. Intelligence will help our policymakers understand emerging economic opportunities and challenges. It will help us thwart anyone who tries to steal our technology or otherwise refuses to play by the competitive rules. It will help us seek peace and avert conflicts in regions of dangerous tension.” George Bush as DCI George H. W. Bush is the first president to have served as the Director of Central Intelligence \(DCI\). He served as DCI from January 1976 to January 1977. During Bush’s presidency, his experience as DCI gave him an insider’s knowledge of the Intelligence Community and how it operated. When DCI Bush came to the Agency, the investigations of the Senate’s Church Committee —which rocked the Intelligence Community — were just coming to a close. DCI Bush was credited with restoring the morale of Agency employees during a time of great turbulence. George Bush Center for Intelligence In April 1999, the CIA Headquarters compound was designated the “George Bush Center for Intelligence” in honor of the former DCI and president. Agency employees, former Directors and Deputy Directors of Central Intelligence, colleagues, friends, and family members joined former President Bush at the dedication ceremony. Carrying on the tradition started by President Truman following the Agency’s founding, President Bush wrote a note thanking the men and women of the CIA for their service to the United States. He is the 11th president to write a note for the CIA’s Presidents’ Gallery: “To the CIA, an indispensable Agency — especially to the men and women who serve with such dedication and distinction.” Related Stories and Links: Presidential Reflections on U.S. Intelligence: Harry S. Time: Dec 09, 2015 10:23 AM EST

Item Text: Noam Chomsky on the Terror attacks in Paris - November 2015 On the 17th of November, 2015, Prof.Noam Chomsky took part in an event titled "Germany's role in the European Union and International Affairs: Post War History, Present and Possible futures" hosted by acTVism Munich. Due to limited financial resources, personnel and technical capacities, we plan to release the entire event in a "mini-video" format. This format provides us with sufficient time to translate the content into multiple language and also subtitle & voice-synchronize it for people with hearing & visual impairment. Please donate to assist us in the production and publishing process: <http://www.actvism.org/en/donate/> In this video Prof. Noam Chomsky comments on the recent terror attacks in Paris committed by the self-proclaimed Islamic State of Iraq and the Levant (ISIL/ISIS/DAESH) . Summary of the Terror attacks in Paris: On the 13th of November 2015, a number of terrorist attacks took place in Paris which claimed the lives of 130 people and injured circa 368. Targets included the Stade de France in San Denis, which was struck by three suicide bombers, the Bataclan concert venue, where an hostage situation ensued resulting in the majority of deaths, and around cafes and restaurants in Paris. The self proclaimed "Islamic State of Iraq and the Levant" (ISIL/ISIS/DAESH) took responsibility for the attacks stating that it was in retaliation against French air strikes targeted on ISIL in Syria & Iraq. On the 15th of November, 2015, France responded by launching another air strike involving 12 planes that dropped 20 bombs. This air strike was conducted under Opération Chammal, which was initially launched on the 19th of September 2014 in Syria & Iraq. ISIL's attacks are considered one of the "deadliest" on French soil since the "Paris Massacre on October 17, 1961", which was committed by the French National Police that claimed the lives of circa 200 people.

Item Text: Disclaimer: I wouldn't advocate doing something like this in a post 9/11 world \(also I was also in my early 20's\) but on July 3rd, 1999 I was working at Tower Records on Newbury Street in Boston and headed down by the Esplanade while they were setting up for the 4th of July fireworks celebration. I noticed that the staff / volunteers had bright orange laminated passes, so I went back to the store, got the art department polaroid camera, and headed back. I was the guy who made all of the laminates for the in-store signings \(back then it was Rage Against the Machine, Danzig, Eminem, etc\) so I managed to talk a woman into letting me take a picture of her holding my skateboard, so I could get a shot of the laminate. I skated back to Tower, made as close to a replica as possible, and on the night of the 4th, got to watch the fireworks \(and orchestra\) from the side of the hatch shell stage with literally not a second glance from anybody the entire night ☺☐☐

Alert Name: Islamist Extremist Terminology

Time: Nov 16, 2015 17:26 EST

Item Text: "I believe that I will see the goodness of the Lord in this world of the living" - Psalm 27:13 This past week was filled with a lot of tears and a lot of questions. Feeling the weight of how far humanity has fallen and how broken our world can be shatters my heart \(Mizzou, the ISIS attacks, all of it\). But even in the deepest pit of exhausting discouragement I am so thankful for God's nearness. Last night for a moment the sun made my room glow the most beautiful shade of purple. Sitting there I could feel his warmth and sweetness towards me, he knew I needed that from him. How intentionally he crafted that precise moment for me to enjoy! // I guess what I wanted to share with you is that God hears you. When I read that Psalm I cried out to Him and said "God show me your goodness in this world" and he responded! He said "Here you go. I want you to see this because I love you, Nicole" and guess what y'all he loves you too. His heart bleeds for this world just as much as ours do. Cry out to him. #prayforparis #prayformizzou #prayforbeirut #prayforbaghdad

The tragedy that took place in Kuwait City yesterday took so many innocents lives, but these lives will never be forgotten. They brought together an entire nation and bolstered our ties and our care for each other. No words can express how we felt as we saw images of those falling innocent martyrs just as there are no words to express how proud we are to see our Kuwait come together from all ages, religions, sects or whatever background in the face of this tragedy as one nation, and one people. Kuwait has responded with something far more powerful and eternal than violence and hatred. We will stay strong. We will remain united. Item Text: Disclaimer: I wouldn't advocate doing something like this in a post 9/11 world \(also I was also in my early 20's\) but on July 3rd, 1999 I was working at Tower Records on Newbury Street in Boston and headed down by the Esplanade while they were setting up for the 4th of July fireworks celebration. I noticed that the staff / volunteers had bright orange laminated passes, so I went back to the store, got the art department polaroid camera, and headed back. I was the guy who made all of the laminates for the in-store signings \(back then it was Rage Against the Machine, Danzig, Eminem, etc\) so I managed to talk a woman into letting me take a picture of her holding my skateboard, so I could get a shot of the laminate. I skated back to Tower, made as close to a replica as possible, and on the night of the 4th, got to watch the fireworks \(and orchestra\) from the side of the hatch shell stage with literally not a second glance from anybody the entire night ☺☐☐

I noticed that the staff / volunteers had bright orange laminated passes, so I went back to the store, got the art department polaroid camera, and headed back. I was the guy who made all of the laminates for the in-store signings \(back then it was Rage Against the Machine, Danzig, Eminem, etc\) so I managed to talk a woman into letting me take a picture of her holding my skateboard, so I could get a shot of the laminate. I skated back to Tower, made as close to a replica as possible, and on the night of the 4th, got to watch the fireworks \(and orchestra\) from the side of the hatch shell stage with literally not a second glance from anybody the entire night ☺☐☐](#)

I noticed that the staff / volunteers had bright orange laminated passes, so I went back to the store, got the art department polaroid camera, and headed back. I was the guy who made all of the laminates for the in-store signings \(back then it was Rage Against the Machine, Danzig, Eminem, etc\) so I managed to talk a woman into letting me take a picture of her holding my skateboard, so I could get a shot of the laminate. I skated back to Tower, made as close to a replica as possible, and on the night of the 4th, got to watch the fireworks \(and orchestra\) from the side of the hatch shell stage with literally not a second glance from anybody the entire night ☺☐☐](#)

I noticed that the staff / volunteers had bright orange laminated passes, so I went back to the store, got the art department polaroid camera, and headed back. I was the guy who made all of the laminates for the in-store signings \(back then it was Rage Against the Machine, Danzig, Eminem, etc\) so I managed to talk a woman into letting me take a picture of her holding my skateboard, so I could get a shot of the laminate. I skated back to Tower, made as close to a replica as possible, and on the night of the 4th, got to watch the fireworks \(and orchestra\) from the side of the hatch shell stage with literally not a second glance from anybody the entire night ☺☐☐](#)

I93 Boston Alert	protest		flickr	The section of South Boston north of First Street has been targeted for massive redevelopment by the administration of Mayor Thomas Menino and the Boston Redevelopment Authority (BRA). As of September 2010, the Seaport Square project was expected to cost $3 billion and replace parking lots between the federal courthouse and convention center with a 6,300,000-square-foot (590,000 m2) mixed-use development. Construction was expected to begin in 2011.	Guillermo R.	I93 Boston	14:53 EST

Initially referred to as the "Seaport District" by the BRA, this area was officially restyled the "South Boston Waterfront" after virulent protest from natives and local politicians, including City Council President James M. Kelly. The Central Artery/Tunnel (CA/T) Project, also known as the Big Dig, has created a completely new transportation network for this area and quite a few new hotel and office projects have come online in the past few years.
